LIQUOR DEALERS SHAKEN DOWN

Paid for Protection at Canton, Testimony Shows.

NOT SHOWN WHO GOT CASH

Bootlegger's Story of Plot to Get Minister Corroborated by Other Witnesses, Who Fail to Connect Former Director Curtis With the Alleged Conspiracy—Review of Testimony Offered at Hearing.

Columbus, April 24.—Testimony offered at the hearing before Governor Donahey of Mayor Charles Curtis of Canton and Edward C. Curtis, former safety director of the same city, was to the effect that bootleggers in Canton paid for protection.

The story of Harry Bouklis, known as "Harry the Greek," was corroborated in part by Nick Kalos of Canton. Kalos testified that Bouklis asked him to "get" Rev. W. H. Longsworth, a Congregationalist minister, and twice took him to the latter's home in an automobile, so that he might "get the lay of the land," but that he had declined to act for Bouklis in that capacity. "Harry the Greek," he said, expected him to take the clergyman's life in return for the payment of a fine of $450 by the bootlegger, and that he offered him in addition an automobile and $500 in money.

Witness said the conspiracy against Longsworth was engendered because of the clergyman's activities against bootleggers. He averred, however, that Bouklis had never mentioned former Safety Director E. E. Curtis as being a party to the plot. Bouklis had told the governor that Curtis had "ordered" the death of the preacher and that they had made preliminary arrangements for the killing.

Other witnesses corroborated the testimony of "Harry the Greek," that they paid him for protection. None, however, were able to connect Director Curtis with the transactions.

J. M. Pilcher, city detective, another witness for the prosecution, testified there are no vice dens in Canton and that Director Curtis had ordered him to arrest women found loitering. Many arrests were made for violations of the liquor law, and "in many respects," he said, the city was cleaner under the administration of Director Curtis than ever before in his 17 years' experience as a police officer.

Three ministers called to testify against Curtis were general in their accusations. Two condemned the administration and the third refused to attempt to fix the responsibility.

FARM WORK RETARDED

Cold Rainy Weather Features Week In More Northern States.

Washington, April 24.—The department of agriculture reports that cold rainy weather in the more northern states was rather unfavorable for farm work; but the weather was generally favorable in the central valleys, where spring planting progressed satisfactorily in most districts, also in the southern districts. Winter wheat made fair to good progress in the principal producing areas with improvement in much of the eastern portion of the wheat belt wherever winter killing was not so pronounced and the condition remained generally good in the western portion of the belt. The seeding of spring wheat was nearly completed in the principal producing sections, although the week was rather unfavorable for farm work in some localities. Spring wheat has germinated very well. Little corn has been planted in the northern Ohio valley states, but much seeding has been done in North Carolina, Tennessee and southward and the lower Missouri valley and southern plains states.

STRENUOUS SESSIONS SEEN

Tax Reduction Battle Expected to Open In Senate Next Week.

Washington, April 24.—The tax reduction contest is expected to start in the senate next week. The Democrats, in addition to waging a contest against the Mellon income tax rates, reinserted in the bill by the senate finance committee in the place of the Longworth compromise schedule adopted by the house, will seek modification also of the corporation and estate taxes and public hearings for tax disputes. The Democratic stand was set forth in the minority report of the finance committee filed in the senate by Senator Jones (Dem., N. M.).

JOHNSON SPEAKS

Mellon Tax Reduction Plan Unsound, the Senator Says.

Columbus, April 24.—Senator Hiram Johnson, contesting with President Coolidge for the Republican presidential nomination, made a speech here last night. "I have one definite thing in mind," Johnson said. "I am preaching that the Republican party has to clean house, and that recent events demonstrate the necessity for members of the party demanding and enforcing common honesty in politics and in government."

Senator Johnson condemned the Mellon tax reduction plan as unsound and created for big business interest. He said he favored a tax plan which would reduce taxes for all classes. "There can be no political issue on reduction of taxes," the senator declared, "as tax reduction is something to which the people are entitled."

The senator also criticised the administration's foreign policy and President Coolidge's attitude on the soldier bonus.

Thomas Shenton and James Warmkessel, students, were found dead with bullet wounds in Shenton's room at the Y. M. C. A., at Pottstown, Pa. A note found in the room indicated a suicide pact.

FORTY MILLION TONS MINED

Coal Production in Ohio in 1923 Shows Big Increase.

EXCEEDED ONLY THREE TIMES

Reports From Mines In the Several Districts Indicate That 1924 Production Will Exceed That of Last Year—Output and Conditions In the Various Coal Mining Districts of the State.

Columbus, April 24.—According to a survey made by the department of industrial relations coal production in Ohio during 1923 exceeded 40,700,000 tons.

The increase, compared with the production in 1922, when only 27,500,000 tons were mined, was notable. The production in 1923 has been exceeded only three times in the 35 years that statistics of production have been maintained. The peak production was reached in 1920, when the production was 45,227,077 tons.

Machine mined coal during 1923 resulted in a production of 35,830,931 tons, or a gain of 13,977,727 tons over the previous year, as reported from the 30 Ohio counties where coal mining is the chief industry. The picked coal tonnage was 2,552,188, as compared with 2,056,918 in 1922. Mining by the stripping process amounted to 2,838,376 for 1923.

In eight counties production exceeded 1,000 tons, during 1923, the largest being 13,421,295 tons produced from the 123 mines in Belmont county. Although Tuscarawas county has the largest number of mines, 134, only 1,328,522 tons were mined and the county ranked seventh in the group.

Of 2,855,653 tons mined in the 49 Harrison county mines, 1,094,805 was by the stripping process and 1,735,098 by machinery. The smallest production by stripping was in Belmont county, where 1,368 tons were mined in that fashion.

In the Tuscarawas county mines was produced the greatest amount of coal by pick, 411,348 tons being the output there. One mine only was reported from Monroe county and it gave up 411 tons by picking, and two mines in Washington county delivered 482 tons of picked coal and 3,421 machine mined tons.

Monthly reports from mines in the various districts indicate the 1924 production will exceed that of last year and possibly set a record for all time.

PINCHOT SNOWED UNDER

Rejected by Pennsylvania Voters for Delegate-at-Large.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 24.—Governor Pinchot and his issue of liquor enforcement was lost by 250,000 in the Pennsylvania primary. Pinchot was snowed under for a place on the list of seven Republican delegates-at-large by Ralph Beavers Strassburger, millionaire owner of the Norristown Herald, who received full support of Republican organizations in Philadelphia, Allegheny and other large counties. Strassburger carried Philadelphia by 190,000. President Coolidge is now assured of the solid delegation of 79 votes from the keystone state at the Cleveland convention. For the first time in the memory of the oldest elector Pennsylvania has failed to send its governor to the convention of the party whose politics he embraced.

Washington, April 24.—Before the senate agriculture committee, B. H. Wilkins opposed government operation and the Ford offer, declaring that under it Ford was not obliged to produce cheap fertilizer. He lauded the Hoover-White-Atterbury bid.

Senator Norris charged that merchants in the vicinity of Muscle Shoals were boycotting manufacturers who opposed the Ford offer.

INSURANCE BONUS PUT THROUGH

Senate Passes Measure Approved by the House.

NOW GOES TO CONFERENCE

Cash Bonus Option Rejected After Extended Debate by a Vote of 47 to 38—Senate Leaders of Opinion That President Coolidge Will Approve the Insurance Bill as Passed. Absence of Debate.

Washington, April 24.—After two days' debate, the senate passed the soldier bonus bill which carries the insurance plan as passed by the house.

The cash bonus option, offered by Democratic members as an amendment, was rejected by a vote of 47 to 38. The insurance measure which passed the senate 67 to 17 now goes to conference.

The bill would allow cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation and 20-year endowment insurance policies to others.

Senator Borah led the opposition to any bonus measure. He warned the senators it was "time to take stock." Senator Underwood declared war veterans will have to pay their own bonus in taxes, in an attack he delivered on the insurance policy bill. As the cost of the measure will be levied on industries and farming and all gainful occupations, the entire scheme will work against the soldiers it is intended to help, Underwood declared.

Advocates of the insurance policy bonus expressed confidence that the measure would receive approval of President Coolidge. On the final vote on the bill, nine Democrats and eight Republicans opposed it, while 33 Republicans, 32 Democrats and two Farmer-Labor senators supported it. Senators Willis and Fess voted for the bill. Democratic members were assured by Republican leaders that they would vote to override a veto of the insurance bill, but would support a veto of a cash bonus measure. Opponents of the bonus insurance bill characterized it as a "makeshift." Efforts to amend it will be made some time in the future, they said.

Philadelphia, April 24.—Harry K. Thaw, although declared sane by a jury, is still in the asylum where he has been confined for seven years, and will remain there pending a motion for a new trial. After the verdict had been brought in, William A. Gray, counsel for Evelyn Nesbit, Thaw's divorced wife, whose 13-year-old son was permitted to intervene in the trial, requested the usual four days in which to file a motion and reasons for a new trial. The motion was granted and Judge Monahan, before whom the case was heard, held Thaw in the custody of the court pending its disposition. No time was set for the hearing of the motion. Since he shot and killed Stanford White in New York in June, 1906, Thaw has spent about 16 years in jails and asylums.

UP TO COOLIDGE

Delegation Urges President to Sign Bursum Pension Bill.

Washington, April 24.—Headed by Carmi A. Thompson of Ohio, a delegation of officials of the Grand Army of the Republic and Spanish War Veterans urged President Coolidge to sign the Bursum pension bill, passed recently by congress.

The Bursum bill, increasing pensions of Civil war veterans to $72 a month and their widows to $45, passed the last congress, but was vetoed by the late President Harding because of opportunities afforded unscrupulous women to marry veterans in order to obtain a federal pension. This objection was removed in the bill just passed.

The new bill provides that widows can not benefit unless they were married to veterans on or before June 27, 1905. It makes a much smaller charge upon the federal treasury than did the one vetoed by Mr. Harding. The measure Harding disapproved would have cost about $100,000,000. The new bill, it is estimated, will cost about $55,000,000 a year. There are about 150,000 veterans on the pension rolls and about 250,000 widows.

Spiders Slaves to Ants

Green tree ants, which, it is said, make spiders their captives, and force them to spin webs with which leaves are bound together for their nests, were found in large numbers on an expedition into tropical Queensland, Australia, by Capt. C. H. Wilkins, who was collecting natural history specimens for the British museum. Captain Wilkins was unable to substantiate this story by personal observation, but obtained some of the ants for a more detailed study.—London Times.

Not Worth It

On the stand in Traffic court was a wealthy merchant. He had been arrested for speeding. To hear him tell it to the judge he drove the car as a careful mother pushes along a baby carriage, never exceeding four miles an hour.

Church at Ft. Randall Built by U. S. Soldiers

Fort Randall, South Dakota, has a church called a "mystery church." The church, concerning the erection of which all records were believed lost, was built in 1875. Its material was chalk rock, quarried out of the hills two miles south of the fort by soldiers of the first United States infantry, stationed at the fort at that time.

The central portion of the building was intended for the use of the second I. O. O. F. lodge organized in the territory, and made up of soldiers. The east wing was the church and the west wing the post library. The building was used in this manner until the fort was abandoned in 1892.

The church was well furnished, all the pews being two and one-half-inch black walnut. There was a large organ and a large bell that could be heard for miles. All this was bought by the soldiers and citizens employed at the fort. The organ is still at the fort in the commanding officer's house, which is still standing intact. The walls of the old church building are still standing. Hundreds of names are written on the insides of the walls and carved on the outsides.—Detroit News.

Celts Visited Iceland Years Before Norsemen

So far as known, when the Northmen visited Iceland in the Ninth century, they found no trace of an aboriginal race. However, the island had been previously inhabited by Celts, who settled there before 800 A. D. Some Icelandic historians claim that the Celtic colonists were still living on the island when the Scandinavians arrived. But the question is disputed and the general belief is that these Celtic settlers had disappeared before Iceland was discovered by the Norsemen in 850. In any event, books, croziers and other articles found by the early Scandinavians prove that Irish monks had made an attempt to colonize the island.

The real history of Iceland dates from about 870, when large numbers of Norsemen began to settle there owing to political disturbances in Scandinavia. Only about one-fourth of Iceland is inhabitable and the entire population is only about 85,000.—Detroit News.

Jewels of the Night.

Do you know that the ancient astronomers were very much interested in jewelry? They said that a ruby represented the planet Mars; a sapphire, Jupiter; a diamond, Saturn; an emerald, Venus; an amethyst, Mercury. Gold represented the sun and pearls the moon.—Boston Post.

When Ice Explodes

While gathering certain data on the Upper Missouri river in South Dakota, a scientist attached to one of the government bureaus reported a curious phenomenon that sometimes occurs in that region. It was in December. About noon one day there came to the scientist's ears a heavy report, audible for miles, that led him to remark that a blowout must have occurred on the river. On returning to the place where he had crossed in the morning he found an irregular hole, covering a space 100 feet square, in the solid ice, which averaged 26 inches in thickness. The theory is that such blowouts result from imprisoned air gradually accumulating in a favorable spot, where it is subjected to tremendous pressure by the force of the river current.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it dosen't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simyly because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
No. 2. Effective Insulation.
No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

Smart Two-Piece Suit, Tan and Brown Checks

This winsome two-piece suit of severe lines is worked out in a charming manner in tan and brown checks. It is quite the costume for street, shopping or business wear.

Fashion Suggestions of Interest to Women

Leading Paris couturiers predict a continued strong tendency toward plaids and are placing their orders with the Scottish woolen mills, accordingly. A new blue-gray shade called poudre blue is being introduced, but the Scottish weavers say that it will not attain its full popularity before next fall.

For the woman who travels much, knitted silk or silk-and-cotton mixture underwear cannot be equaled for convenience, daintiness or economy. Because it can, without the least damage, be rolled up and tucked away in the smallest imaginable corners of one's bag, it makes the task of packing so much easier. Then, too, knitted underwear, whether it be of silk or any other material, doesn't need to be ironed before being worn, which is quite a help to the woman living aboard a train or at a hotel.

Back in the '40s no man was admitted to a dance or other formal affair without white kid gloves. Every woman who has ever suffered the destruction of a new gown from her dancing partner's perspiring hands wishes the old days could be brought back again.

Your photograph will be more attractive if you wear gloves of mocha or suede or some other unglaced material that will not reflect the light rather than shiny kid. This is an inexorable rule of the "movie" studios.

Last year milady carried a red or green stick to match her shoes. This year the sticks are black, white, brown, beige or fawn, to match her gloves.

Thin diagonals run across the vamp of some smart walking pumps on display in London. In black, on a pale tan ground, they have a zebra effect which is most arresting.

For motoring and for other sports there is a chic little hat of red kid in something between a turban and a jockey cap effect. Its visor is of transparent mica.

The shingle bob, which is becoming to well-shaped heads, is a hard thing to decorate a la evening coiffure. One shingle-bob headband is a wreath of shining, pale green leaves, worn low on the forehead, which fastens with ornamental pins on each side where the bob ends and the shingle begins.

Snappy Frocks With Gay Capes, Coats to Match

As a rival of the tailored suit, the three-piece costume, consisting of frock with cape or coat to match, is a factor to be taken into serious consideration. Each has a prominent place in the modes of the season and many women will feel that both are essential to a perfect wardrobe.

In costumes of this type both cape and coat are fairly long, reaching well below the knees. Fine twills are used when the model consists of frock and coat, but there is a decided feeling for black satin or novelty silk when a cape is worn over the gown. In one model a striking effect is gained by introducing bands of old blue crepe stitched in silk of the same shade. The dress has the chemisier front that is seen so often this spring in both frocks and blouses.

Crisp Waffles

For crisp, delicious waffles the Southern culinary artists recommend this: Sift twice two level cupfuls of self-rising flour. Beat the whites of two eggs very light and the yolks until thick. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sweet milk to yolks and stir in two level cupfuls of self-rising flour. Add four tablespoonfuls of melted shortening and whites of eggs; beat thoroughly. Bake at once on a hot, well-oiled waffle iron. Serve immediately with butter, honey or 'lasses.

St. Peter's Chair

The festival of St. Peter's chair celebrated with great solemnity and splendor in St. Peter's Rome, had its origin in the Eighth century—possibly even earlier than that time. The chair, old, plain and worn, on which St. Peter is said to have been pontificated, is enshrined by a magnificent throne, supported by four gigantic figures and mounted upon a tribune decorated by Michelangelo. The throne stands in the great nave behind the altar of St. Peter's.

The Venetians once claimed to possess the chair of St. Peter, but it was discovered about a century ago that this supposedly sacred article bore the inscription: "There is but one God and Mohammed is His Prophet." It is supposed that this chair was brought from the East by the Crusaders.—Detroit News.

Cheeta a Fleet Animal

For short distances the cheeta is supposed to be the swiftest quadruped. However, it is not possible to ascribe the honor definitely to any particular animal. The cheeta, which is found in Asia and Africa, is a large tropical cat, slender of body and limb. It is from three to four feet long, and of a pale, tawny color, marked with numerous dark spots on its sides and back and almost white beneath. It resembles the leopard, and is often called the hunting leopard. The animal resembles the dog in docility. Its fur is not sleek like that of typical cats. It has a long tail, which is somewhat bushy at the end.

MAD DOGS

Health Commissioner Hosler Gives Advice—Kill Strange Dogs.

Recently there have been several persons bitten by rabid dogs in this county, and it is the duty of every dog owner to use all the precautionary measures possible to prevent the spread of this horrible malady.

If your dog has been bitten by a rabid animal have him killed at once so as to be on the safe side.

If you see a dog acting strangely have him placed in a secure pen and observed for a few days. If he is rabid he will become worse and will finally be paralyzed; then he should be killed and his head sent to the state department of health laboratory for examination.

Microscopical examination of the brain in rabid animals shows small black bodies (Negri bodies) that are diagnostic of the disease. If the animal is killed too early before the disease has developed sufficiently these bodies will not show in the brain and consequently no diagnosis can be made.

Anyone bitten by a suspicious animal should consult his family physician at once and take the Pasteur treatment which he can give you, without you going away to some distant city. The county provides for this treatment.

Beware of strange dogs, especially of dogs that act strangely and sullen or froth at the mouth or have spasms.

All stray dogs that have no license tags should be killed. If you own a dog keep him muzzled or confined at your home.

R. S. HOSLER M. D.
Health Commissioner.

CANEY CREEK

Boys Gave Recital of Educational Work in Kentucky Mountains.

The Caney Creek boys direct from Pippispass, Kentucky, appeared at the Presbyetrian church Wednesday evening. The boys were greeted with a good sized audience who listened to a most interesting recital of the educational work instituted by Mrs. Alice S. G. Lloyd, of Boston, who has spent the past eight years of her life in the mountains of Kentucky. Originally going there for the benefit of her health she came in contact with the miserable life of the mountain people and saw the lack of education of the children of this most inaccessible mountain region growing up in ignorance. This played on her sympathy and her heart went out to these ignorant, but exceptionally bright youngsters and it was thru her influence that a community school was established at Caney Creek.

The name Pippipass is the postoffice established by the government. Mrs. Lloyd was a member of the Browning society of Boston, Massachusetts, and the name is taken from one of Brownings poems.

The Caney Creek community college in the mountains of Kentucky is the nucleus of the educational center of the mountain region. It is from this center that teachers are sent out into the mountains to start schools in the five states, Kentucky, North Carolina, West Virginia and Virginia, and also Tennessee.

The schools are kept up thru the endowment of the public, who see the worth of the school established by Mrs. Lloyd.

The open, bright contenances of the boys, who bring the message to us, speak well for them and only shows what education will do for the boy or girl who is given a chance.

The young men were given an ovation at the high school auditorium this morning and were also guests of The Rotarions at the Boggs at noon. D. Hollender Hall is in charge as manager of the boys. He is accompanied by Corbett Franklin, Gomer Sturgill and Birchel Moore. The last two named boys have been here before, about a year ago.

Neatly Put.

Georgie's little playmate was somewhat inclined to exaggerate whenever he told anything. His elders seemed amused at what they called his imaginings. Not so with Georgie, who was a serious child for his age. "You can't depend on what Carl says," he commented; "he tells so many things that isn't."

AMUSEMENTS

A boon for the movies is "Scaramouche," the big Rex Ingram production for Metro, which opened last night at the Met theater. This film, which is a screen version of Rafael Sabatini's popular novel of the French Revolution is in our opinion, the greatest photoplay yet made in the motion picture industry. Romance, adventure thrills, beauty ,every desirable feature in a picture is here down in superb fashion.

RAMON NOVARRO

The cast of 10,000 is headed by Alice Terry, Lewis Stone and Ramon Novarro, the triumvirate of Ingram's earlier film "The Prisoner of Zenda" and they score an even greater success.

Willis Goldbeck's screen adaptation was perfect. The excellent photography was by John F. Seitz. Curt Rehfeld was production manager and Grant Whytock edited the film.

MULTIPLYING DEPARTMENTS

Theoretical political doctors who really have no faith in our system of government want the president's office divided by creating new departments. They would create a system of glorified irresponbility and magnify the noble science of passing the buck in public affairs. At least five new departments are proposed socalled experts to assist the president ranking as members of the cabinet.

Following in the wake of European monarchies these doctrinaires of officialism would create a sort of haloed secretariat. It is claimed that the load placed upon Wilson and Harding was too heavy for mortal man to carry and that they were literally crushed by their official duties. One of these leaders of progressive officialism points out that the poor unfortunate president must get along in the White House now with a staff of less than fifty persons.

The unfortunate president of our country " has no technical assistant, no administrative secretary, no equivalent to a general manager." Too bad, too bad! The lesson of world history is that nothing has ever been accomplished for reform or better government but by a sturdy individual. Multiplication of irresponsible advisors produces a helpless bureaucracy under which the producer and toiler are crushed.

Marvelous Toy Violin.

Perfect in every detail, and so small it will lie within a space covered by two-half dollars laid side by side, London now boasts of having the smallest violin in the world. It was made by the well-known violinist, B. Vanderneulen, and is exquisitely constructed as to scale. The exact measurements are: Violin body, 1.11-16 inches; violin, over all, 2⅝ inches; bow, 3.9-16 inches.

DAUGHERTY TELLS HIS SIDE

Ex-Attorney General's Speech at Testimonial Dinner.

Columbus, O.—(Special.)—The following speech, in part, was delivered by Harry M. Daugherty at the testimonial dinner given by his Ohio friends in his behalf, here:

"My heart is touched and my pride deeply gratified by this respectful and representative presence. No vindication can equal the respect and confidence of one's neighbors with whom a man has lived and labored for a third of a century.

"I am a Republican, but I speak to you tonight as a private citizen, with no partisan purpose and no personal ambition of a political character.

"I make this observation with the lone qualification that I recall I am one of seven candidates for delegate-at-large from Ohio to the Republican national convention, and all of us pledged to support Calvin Coolidge for the Republican nomination for president.

"Now a word about the great department of justice.

"In peace time the department of justice is the war department of the government.

"With the selection of a cabinet by the late President Harding there was displayed impressive and suspicious anxiety on the part of certain persons and interests as to whom would be chosen attorney general. President Harding, within 30 days after his election, discovered the motive behind this deep solicitude.

"Many outstanding men who sought to exercise influence with the president-elect did so at the instance of pressure brought to bear upon them, not knowing the real reason actuating those who directly, indirectly and most adroitly sought such influence.

"It will be remembered that for months before the president-elect made public announcement of the name of his prospective attorney general, the man who was suspected as likely to be the president's choice was criticised, abused, blackened and condemned in the public press wherever it could be deceived and used by those manipulating the attacks from the background and behind the scenes.

"Any real and dependable friend of the president-elect, no matter who he might be, would have been attacked in a similar manner. Those who worked so assiduously and deceptively in undertaking to influence President-elect Harding in the appointment of his attorney general were the same persons and interests that have attempted in the past three long and trying years to control my acts as attorney general.

"They are the dishonest and disloyal persons who defrauded the government during the war. They are the crooked, worthless stock promoters who have stolen in the past seven years almost a billion of dollars from inexperienced and trustful investors. They are persistent violators of the anti-trust laws; the big and little booseleggers; and last, but not least, the soviet radical element, whose declared purpose is to destroy the very form of American government as founded by our forefathers. I might add here that representatives of all these elements, by acts of mine, are now in the penitentiaries or facing prison walls. Many of them have already paid and others will be compelled in due course to pay millions of dollars into the treasury of the United States because of the efficient and successful prosecution of these particular cases by the department of justice.

"To have been chosen a member of the cabinet of one president, retained in that of his successor, and by the latter requested to resign—all against the expressed will of the cabinet member—is rather a novel, and, you might say from surface indications, a most harrowing and unsatisfactory experience. Some explanation from me, therefore, at least might not be out of place at this moment.

"However, when a man has been assured of the confidence and respect of both presidents; when he knows that he has never violated his oath of office; that he has given the best there was in him, and challenges any fair investigation of his every official act in behalf of his only client—the government of the United States—it is most gratifying to be able to look with a clear conscience into the faces of his neighbors, as I do tonight, and in fact into the face of the entire world.

"On the 27th day of March, 1924, the day upon which President Coolidge was forced, through misrepresentation, to request my resignation as attorney general of the United States, the department of justice was functioning more efficiently than at any time in the history of the government. * * * *

'President Coolidge well knew this, and so expressed himself frequently.'

Mr. Daugherty here discussed the volume of work the war and its attendant usufruct devolved on his department. In this connection, he said:

"During the war and thereafter there was much cry and criticism against men and concerns who had transacted business with the government in war time. But not until 1921, when the Harding administration was installed, was anything done to investigate war-time transactions or to recover moneys fraudulently obtained from the government."

The shopmen's strike, resulting in the Chicago injunction, was next discussed, Mr. Daugherty adding that "the injunction ended the strike in 36 hours, and as a consequence the industrial life of America will never again be paralyzed by a general transportation strike. The principle applies to capital and labor alike." He then continued:

"I did not resist the passage of the resolution to investigate the department of justice and my official acts. But the resolution was held up in the senate by its promoters in order that day by day, they could take advantage of the immunity they abused in order to create a condition of suspicion, doubt and prejudice throughout the country. It was well known that a majority of the investigating committee would make an adverse report without charges and without evidence, and I have been advised that a resolution condemning the attorney general was prepared even before the hearings before the investigating committee commenced. With few exceptions, notably the senators from my own state, Republican senators sat through this performance without protest."

The former attorney general next discussed communistic activities in this country, and the effort of soviet influences to capture the American Federation of Labor. He gave Samuel Gompers and John L. Lewis due credit for preventing it. He then said:

"Bear in mind that the files of the department of justice, which I refused to deliver to the Wheeler investigating committee at the time my resignation was requested, were demanded by Brookhart and Wheeler, two United States senators who spent last summer in Russia, with their soviet friends—those same soviet and communist leaders who preach destruction of constitutional government, destruction even of human life. I preferred to permit my integrity to be questioned and my honor to hang in the balance, for the time being, rather than surrender the files in the keeping of the department of justice. I gladly gave up a post of honor, rather than contribute to a treasonable cause. I do not want to be considered exceptional by any means for having done my duty, and I was not influenced by any man or set of men in America, Russia or elsewhere.

"The protection of individual and official rights have been ignored. Under senatorial immunity falsehoods were reeled off by slanderous tongues of conscienceless senators. The personnel of some of the committees appointed by the senate was known to be prejudiced and to hold prejudiced opinions. Groundless charges were made against those who had stood for the enforcement of the law and for orderly processes. The attorney general of the United States, if he performs his duty, is the most unpopular and the least supported of government officials.

"On both sides of the chamber there were senators who regretted the attacks that were being made, they well knew there was no justification for such attacks, but they were helpless and terrorized, or selfishly indifferent. The senate chamber is just now a closed house. The sunlight, however, will some day shine therein. This is not a threat, but a promise. And bear in mind I say these things knowing full well that the senate is to be the tribunal which may yet try the ex-attorney general for anything that any person can be induced to testify to that any other person, living or dead, was supposed to have said. The American people however, constitute the jury that will ultimately place the responsibility where it belongs and vindicate those who deserve vindication.

"Do you know that no charges have ever been filed against me? Do you know that hardly a syllable of truth has been testified to and that there has been no testimony offered reflecting upon my official acts? In the possession of the committee directed and controlled by Wheeler, Brookhart, and a classmate and associate of Wheeler's claiming to be a Democrat, there are complete and dependable reports regarding every official transaction of the government that has been referred to in slimy speech or public libel, which reports show conclusively the efficiency and effectiveness with which the government business has been transacted. Yet all these reports sleep untouched in the files of the Wheeler committee, because the publication of the facts therein stated would show the insincerity and break up the game of these public purifiers.

"Do you know that a majority vote of the Wheeler committee denied me the right of subpoenaing witnesses? Do you know that immediate opportunity for cross-examination of important witnesses, even though such witnesses be ex-convicts and prospective convicts, has been denied me? Ex-train robbers, disloyal discharged employes, persons under indictment, and persons with no character to sustain, are brought upon the so-called witness stand for the purpose of creating newspaper headlines and continuing to mislead the president, the public, the press, and the senate? Do you know that the enormous expense of the Wheeler committee in raking and scraping the country, scrutinizing the official acts and prying into the lives and private transactions of men under investigation and others not even remotely connected with the department of justice or with me, is being borne by a man of peculiar mentality, in the person of Frank A. Vanderlip, who is now trying to justify the insane attack upon the honor of a dead president and within the past few days has vent his spleen upon President Coolidge?

"I am glad to know that the belief that many entertained weeks ago that this saturnalia of senatorial investigative procedure was violative of law and good conscience, has now come to be generally accepted, and I hope the public protest recently made will serve to save a distinguished, deserving and efficient member of the president's cabinet. Had any indication been given that the investigation of the department of justice would be conducted with fairness and along proper lines, it was my intention to make public the private business transactions of my life. I would not have consented to do this except for the fact that while I held public office I did not want any man to feel that there was anything in my private or official life that I was disposed to conceal, even from a curious public. I did not abandon my intention to disclose my private business transactions even when the unfair method of the majority of the Wheeler committee became plain. But now, having withstood the tempest until forced off my official feet, I deny the right of the committee to investigate my private life or scrutinize my personal business transactions, though I am willing and anxious that my official acts while attorney general of the United States shall be investigated and scrutinized by the public.

"When banks are attacked, houses burglarized, graves opened, liars encouraged, individuals shadowed by spies, and the Wheeler committee pursues an unlawful inquisition against a private citizen, I propose to stand my ground and deny its authority over me. * * *

"What happens to me or to any other individual in this tragic drama now unfolding at Washington does not much matter. But a few years more and we will all be gone, perhaps forgotten. But this republic, founded and defended by heroes and martyrs throughout a century and a third, until ours has become the oldest republican flag in the world, must and shall endure, despite the assaults of enemies, foreign and domestic, whether they 'bore from within' or without. It represents principles and ideals which must endure if ordered liberty is to survive. If what has happened to me shall serve, in connection with other events, to prove how dangerously near we are coming to the sacrifice of the fundamentals of our national faith, then no regret will come to me because of it I am concerned not for myself, but for our country. If what has been done to me by the most powerful and once most respected legislative body in the world can be done to other Americans in private and public life, then the fundamentals of our national faith have been destroyed, since this whole proceeding represents arrogant usurpation on the one side of that chamber and cowardly surrender of principle on the other. It represents the substitution, even in our chief law-making body, of lawlessness for law, of class hatred and class greed for patriotism and justice.

"The president and the retired attorney general have had an unpleasant experience, but they have had no quarrel. There was a principle at stake vastly more important to me than the attorney generalship, a principle that involved the right of a man to a fair trial and a fair opportunity to meet his accusers before an unprejudiced tribunal, recognizing the obligation of his oath of office as well as his right under the law and the constitution which guarantees protection to all.

"Having come from the soil which produced a Sherman, a Grant, a Garfield, a Foraker, a Thurman, a McKinley and, finally, a Harding; having in childhood been inspired by their undaunted courage and in manhood led by their statesmanship; having in mind many other worthy Ohioans who filled with honor and credit prominent positions in national affairs, what was a man, especially an Ohio man, to do under the circumstances?

"Now, before I leave you tonight, after having gone through an experience involving hazard to health, reputation and, in a sense, to life itself, we may all wonder why any man will submit to indignation heaped upon him and stake so much for such a proportionately small return to himself personally. The answer is, of course, that patriotism, thank God, yet lives.

"I picked up on a train recently a obscure magazine in which I accidentally discovered a litte poem, which answers the question, 'Why do men suffer these strains, these exposures, in fact, is the game worth the candle?':

"An old man, going a lone highway,
Came at evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm vast, and deep, and wide
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The sullen stream had no fear for him;
But he turned, when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"'Old man,' said a fellow pilgrim near,
'You are wasting your strength with building here;
You never again will pass this way;
You've crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build you this bridge at eventide?'

"The builder lifted his old gray head,
'Good friend, in the path I have come,' he said,
'There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This chasm that has been as naught to me,
To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim,
Good friend,' I am building this bridge for him.'"

Illustrating Progress.

The Chicago Tribune says: "If man, a curious animal, had been deterred by fear of the unknown, we should still be lighting our fires by rubbing two pieces of wood together." As it is, we have followed our curiosity, and have achieved matches, pieces of wood, with which we start our fires by rubbing not two, but twenty-five or thirty up and down the wall and over the stove. Sometimes there is gas in the stove, which ignites from the match, and makes a fine fire.—Kansas City Star.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for April 27

AMOS AND HOSEA PLEADING FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS

(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Amos 6:1-6; Hosea 6:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Hate the evil, and love the good."—Amos 5:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Daniel Became Strong.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Amos Denounces Drunken Revelers.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Sins Denounced by Amos and Hosea.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Sins That Destroyed Israel.

The kingdom of Israel reached a high state of prosperity in the time of Jeroboam II, and with it came a condition of luxury, corruption and wickedness. Our lesson is a temperance lesson and applies to other things as well as indulgence in intoxicating liquor. Our age and nation are intoxicated with pleasure, pursuit of gain and selfish ambition.

I. The Sins Which Ruined Israel (Amos 6:1-6).

1. Reckless Security (vv. 1.3). They were blind to the evils that surrounded them. They were living in a fool's paradise, closing their eyes to the approaching storm of judgment as predicted by Amos. They trusted in the mountains of Samaria for their protection. They regarded their city as impregnable. They no doubt regarded the utterances of Amos as the dreams of a fanatic. The chief ones of the nation were so puffed up with pride that they failed to read the signs of the times in the light of history (v. 2). To disregard the lessons of history by dismissing the thought of impending judgment is to bring near the seat of violence" (v. 3).

2. Luxury (vv. 4-6). Periods of prosperity are always characterized by corruption and luxury. The luxury of Samaria expressed itself in

(1) Extravagant Furniture (v. 4). They had beds of ivory, perhaps wood inlaid with ivory.

(2) Laziness (v. 4). They stretched themselves upon their couches—living lives of indolence.

(3) Feasted on delicacies (v. 4). The implication here is that they had their dainties out of season. This is what many pride themselves in. They buy what they desire regardless of what it costs. In many instances men and women are living in gluttony while others are destitute.

(4) Adorned their feasts with music (v. 5). They sang idle songs, even invented musical instruments for this purpose. They prostituted the noble art of music to their sensual feasts. How like the times in which we live.

(5) They drank wine (v. 6). They were not content with ordinary drinking vessels. They drank from bowls, indicating excessive drinking. They were so mastered by the intoxicating cup that their feasts, which were adorned with the refinements of music, ended in drunkenness.

3. Failure to Grieve for Joseph (v. 6). Joseph here stands for Ephraim and Manasseh, his two sons. Ephraim became the principal tribe of the northern kingdom, so Joseph is used as a synonym for the nation. Many are indulging in infamous luxury, entirely indifferent to the groanings of others. There is need of a modern Amos to thunder God's judgment upon all those who are living in luxury and who are at ease in Zion—the inevitable issue of such living, the prophet assures them, would be that they should go into captivity (v. 7) and their proud city be delivered up to their enemies (v. 8).

II. The Remedy Proposed (Hosea 6:1-6).

1. Turn Back to God (v. 1). The only way for sinning individuals and nations to escape the judgment of God is with heartbreaking sorrow to repent and return to God. Hosea assures them that though God had torn and smitten them He will heal and bind up if they repent.

2. Believe in His Power to Restore (v. 2). This power even extends to a national resurrection for Israel.

3. Obedience (v. 3). It is through the obedient walk and communication with the Lord that they were to know His forgiving mercy.

4. The Issue (vv. 3-6). Such penitence would make restoration absolutely certain. Grace is even more certain than the laws of nature. Just as showers result in fruitfulness in nature, conformity with the righteous commands of the Lord will result in blessings from Him, for His Supreme desire is not for man to bring offerings of sacrifice but to walk in the knowledge of God.

The Bondage of Fear

Like the cellar-growing vine is the Christian who lives in the darkness and bondage of fear. But let him go forth, with the liberty of God, into the light of love, and he will be like the plant in the field, healthy, robust, and joyful.—W. H. Beacher.

Think

The greatest events of an age are its best thoughts. It is the nature of thought to find its way into action. —Christian Cynosure.

Arizona's Diamond Hoax

One of the greatest mining hoaxes ever perpetrated was the alleged discovery in 1872 of a diamond field in the northeastern part of the territory of Arizona.

Two men of the names of Arnold and Slack were supposed to be the discoverers, and magnificent-looking rough diamonds and rough rubies which it is said they had picked up in the Arizona field were exhibited in San Francisco. A company with a capital of $10,000,000 was organized in San Francisco, and the list of stockholders included a number of large mining investors.

The fraud was exposed by Clarence King, United States geologist, who showed that the stones exhibited were from Africa and Brazil, and upon visiting the Arizona field, saw at once that it was not a diamond-bearing country.—Detroit News.

Unlucky Stiff.

I called the farm hand boy to come and eat his breakfast. While he was eating I went out to feed the chickens. After feeding the chickens I went back to the house and as the boy had eaten I started to clear off the table when, to my surprise, I found that instead of eating his regular breakfast he ate the starch I had prepared for the wash.—Chicago Tribune.

Paying Federal Officials.

The president of the United States is paid by settlement warrant, which is practically the same as a check. This warrant is sent to him by messenger from the treasury twice a month. Senators and representatives are paid either by check or cash as they personally desire through congressional disbursement checks. When they are paid in cash they receive crisp, new bills, as does nearly every one who lives in Washington.

Great Men Superstitious.

Charles Dickens, Lord Macaulay and Max Muller are numbered among the great men avowedly superstitious. Dickens refused to lie down on a bed unless it was placed due north and south, and he gave ample notice of his rule before arriving at a friend's house or a hotel. It is said he carried a compass in his baggage to make sure, and the slightest error had to be corrected before he would turn in.

BOXERS

Several Events Will Take Place at the Armory Friday Evening.

Chuck Ryan, the well known Columbus light-weight, who is to appear on the armory card Friday evening was asked for his opinion of Tommy O'Brien, the Dayton boy he is to oppose. "You can tell them for me" he said "that O'Brien is a tough boy. There is no bad blood between there lads, but they may be depended on to give a real exhibition and give and receive their best, like the pair of good sportsmen they are.

Joe O'Malley, the Capital City boy who shows in the semi-final against Waldo Patterson of the same burg, seems rather different. However, he is confident and assured that he and Wally will put on a melee well worth watching. He showed up extremely well in his training bouts at the hall Wednesday night and is certainly in fine physical condition.

Carl Thomas, Circleville's own youngster, is training hard for his mill with Joe Monoco. If a game and ready heart will make up for a little lack of experience, much will be heard of this little fellow.

The eyeopener of the evening is sure going to be good. Bird and Toles are two heavies who can take them and give them out.

Tickets are about to go and there is every indication that the hall will be sold before the fight commences. A few good seats are left but not many. It would be well to hop to it and get them now. General admission will be sold at the door.

Training will be continued at the armory Thursday night and the Athletic club would like to invite all their friends to drop in and look on. Begins at 7:30.

Don't forget the show is Friday evening, April 25, at the state armory East Franklin street. Boxing will begin at 8 prompt.

Some Fur Everywhere.

"There is hardly a farm," says one authority, "that will not produce at least fifty dollars worth of fur each season, especially at present prices. Trapping is a pleasant occupation for the farmer and his boys in the fall after the rush of work is ended and aside from the time used in setting and tending the traps the money derived from it is all clear profit!"

CRIST DEPARTMENT STORE
By W. E. CRIST,

FAMOUS WRITER

Booth Tarkington for Ten Years Sought Place in Magazine.

The story of Booth Tarkington's struggle for recognition was recalled by the New York World when Samuel S. McClure announced he had purchased McClure's Magazine which he founded 31 years ago.

"The passing of McClure's Magazine back to its creator, Samuel S. McClure is an event of more than casual interest" the World said. The American editor who discovered, introduced or encouraged such masters as Joseph Conrad, Booth Tarkington, Conan Doyle, Jack London and O. Henry, is entitled to a place in the literary history of his times.

"The value of Mr. McClure's services may be illustrated in the case of Tarkington. For ten years the latter vainly sought a place between the covers of magazines. His manuscripts made their dreary rounds, one or two of them of books that ultimately gave him fame and were returned.

"The editor who first saw the genius and the possibilities of Tarkington has done much to enrich the literature of the present generation."

BASEBALL SUNDAY.
